

Parent questionnaire March 2024

Comments:

The Friday assembly.

The encouragement of parents to be included in all aspects of school life.

Being able to speak to staff at the beginning/end of the day.

Thank you for all you do.

Teacher greeting at the gate for easy access to communicate with Mrs Notley/teachers.

Supportive to the children and parents.

Promotes good behavior.

Promotes Christian values and inclusion.

Safe atmosphere, supportive and cares.

My child and I feel very supported, part of the community.

Very caring attitude towards the pupils.

Mother Mitzi's visits to the school help to reinforce the nurturing church.

The stickers from the class teachers are very rewarding and positive.

Great communication between parents and teachers.

St John's has a wonderful nurturing environment and it is so positive to the effect this has.

An open culture is promoted in the school.

They put a lot of emphasis on kindness and good religious qualities.
Good communication.

Listens to the children and parents, safety, caring towards others.

Great communication, always available if any concerns.

Lots of advice and support for their learning at all times.

Teachers and staff always available to support children with their emotional and physical wellbeing.

Promotes Christian values that help school feel like a nurturing community.

Values each child as an individual.

Excellent provision for creative and social development.

Celebrates achievement.

Still very happy with out choice of school, both girls are happy and supported.

School vision and values, community and environment projects.

Group exercises together.

Rotating clubs making sure teachers don't work long hours.

Always receive feedback about what is happening regarding school via email/newsletter.

Weekly assemblies where parents are able to attend.

Very happy with the school and my daughters learning.

Polite and welcoming.

Blending Christianity with schooling.

Involves all children in different activities.

Teaches good values for all children.

Parents and pupils at Friday assemblies.

Overall a good school and pleased my child attends here.

Worked well with me to encourage my child's mother to get my child to school on time.

Did well in terms of working with social services to raise your concerns.

Looked out for my child in terms of social development in terms of playing with other children.

Speaks to the class if they see something unfair/not nice. About how it feels doing things differently.

I love the whole school/teachers, I know my child's strength and embrace, I have fun with him.

Collective worship helps.

Information that comes via email (the parking)

Class discussions that my child tells me about.

Teachers are responsive when dealing with concerns from parents - issues are addressed. Both parent and child feels heard.

Sports/after school clubs have given my child huge confidence.

Children are praised for achievements/doing well, being respectful which boosts confidence.

Feel homework pressure is huge - reading daily task on top of after school activities/outside commitments is sometimes unachievable and stressful. Cause upset/feeling of failure. Also not in line with other schools for age group.

The school encourages the children to respect everyone, feel to interact with other children that might need a bit of attention.

Showing compassion to others, growing in the appropriate manner to their faith.

Lots of planned activities.

Keeps the parents informed.

Transparency.

Communication.

Liking the feedback.

Encourages communication.

Values change when required.

I would recommend the school to others.

Amazing and helpful team, always there to listen to parents questions.

Great communication, friendly staff, very well organized and supportive.

Safe environment, supportive, great sense of community.

I believe children are punished too much for things like homework.

Causes a lot of stress at home.
